International Student Mission Church

I can do everything through him who gives me strength (Phil 4:13)

■ Church Mission Goals

Create opportunities to share the Gospel with international students and immigrants from various countries helping them begin their journey of faith and introducing them to Christ. Establish a business mission center to support missionary work among the Uyghur people in Xinjiang, China.

■ Mission Targets

International students and immigrants in Korea and the United States & Uyghur people in Xinjiang, China.

■ Mission Methods

1. Support for Students

Provide practical assistance for daily life and settlement, such as immigration advice, transportation, housing, and job information. Use social media platforms (WeChat, Facebook, Instagram, online communities) to create points of connection and fellowship.

2. Direct Ministry & Fellowship

- We share the Gospel and engage in direct interaction through weekly Sunday worship services and center meetings.
- Social events with meals tailored to young adults (pizza, chicken, ramen, salad, etc.)
- Academic support: homework assistance, thesis editing, legal guidance, part-time job support, and other life resources
- Christian movie screenings with quizzes and prizes (daily necessities) Special
- events: medical consultations, hobby classes, Christian-themed trips, etc.
- Small group meetings to promote spiritual growth

3. Uyghur Ministry in Urumqi, China

Establish a language education business center and conduct educational programs as a bridge for missionary work among the Uyghur people

■ Discipleship Methods

Train student leaders in each country with the Gospel, enabling them to become missi onaries for CMB. Discipleship is delegated to trained leaders using a 1:1 mentoring system.

■ Church Organization

Online Missionaries: Social media promotion
Offline Missionaries: Distribution of printed materials and personal evangelism
Weekday Counselors: Rotational schedule
Saturday Meeting & Party Coordinators / Discipleship Coordinators
Sunday Worship Leaders: Praise leaders, preachers, and discipleship coordinators

Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name, your kingdom come, your will be done, on earth as it is in heaven.

Give us today our daily bread. And forgive us our debts,
as we also have forgiven our debtors.

And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one.
For yours is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

● Bible Sharing Summary (July 27, 2026)

"Do not give the devil a foothold." — Ephesians 4:27

Pastor HS Jang

As we go through life, we sometimes witness things that are difficult to understand. People who were close yesterday suddenly begin to hate each other. In a family, a single careless word turns into an argument, and that argument stirs up old wounds until the entire household is shaken. In the workplace, a small misunderstanding becomes jealousy, jealousy becomes gossip, and gossip leads to division.
The same happens in business. A single act of greed can turn long-time partners into enemies, and wounded pride can destroy relationships that took a lifetime to build.When these things happen, we tend to focus only on people. We say, "It's because of that person," or "Everything would be fine if that person were gone." But Scripture tells us to look beyond what is visible and recognize the spiritual reality behind it. "For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against... the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms." (Ephesians 6:12)
The Bible reminds us that the true battle is not always against people.
The evil one attacks not where we are strongest, but where we are weakest. If someone is vulnerable to money, temptation comes through wealth. If someone longs for recognition, temptation comes through the desire for approval. If someone is ruled by pride, temptation comes through insult and offense. To the lonely, it comes through unhealthy relationships. To the wounded, it comes through bitterness and a desire for revenge.
That is why 1 Peter 5:8 says: "Be sober-minded and watchful. Your adversary the devil prowls around like a roaring lion, seeking someone to devour."
A lion does not attack just any animal. It looks for one that has become separated from the herd, one that is injured, or one that is exhausted. Our spiritual lives are much the same. We are especially vulnerable when we are physically and emotionally drained, when we neglect prayer, when hurts remain unresolved, or when anger fills our hearts. That is why Scripture tells us, "Do not give the devil a foothold." It is not only warning us against forcing open the door—it is warning us not to leave the door even slightly open.
One person in Scripture who became overcome by an evil spirit is King Saul. Saul was not evil from the beginning. He was Israel's first king, chosen by God and respected by the people. But a small opening appeared in his heart. That opening was jealousy.
After David defeated Goliath, the people sang: "Saul has slain his thousands, and David his tens of thousands." (1 Samuel 18:7)
The moment Saul heard those words, something shifted within him.
"Saul was very angry... and from that day on Saul kept a jealous eye on David." (1 Samuel 18:8-9)
David had not changed. What changed was Saul's way of seeing David. Once jealousy entered his heart, a faithful friend became a rival, and a loyal servant became an enemy.
Then Scripture records a sobering moment: "The next day an evil spirit from God came forcefully upon Saul..." (1 Samuel 18:10)
David was simply playing the harp as he always had. But Saul held a spear in his hand and thought, "I will pin David to the wall." (1 Samuel 18:11)
He threw the spear. In fact, the Bible says he threw it twice. Only moments earlier, David had been playing music to comfort the king. Now Saul was trying to kill him. It all began with jealousy. Jealousy became anger, anger became hatred, and hatred grew into a murderous desire.
When a person is overtaken by evil, they often lose the ability to see reality clearly. David had never tried to harm Saul. He had fought for Saul, defended his kingdom, and played the harp to soothe him. Yet Saul saw David as an enemy. This is the terrifying nature of sin and evil. Before it changes our actions, it changes our vision. The person we should love begins to appear hateful. The person we should appreciate begins to look like a competitor. The person we should forgive begins to seem like an enemy who must be defeated.
In spiritual warfare, the most important question is not, "Who is my opponent?" or "What is the problem?"
The real question is: "What is ruling my heart right now?"
From time to time, we hear news reports of crimes that seem impossible to comprehend. One example is the Jang Yoon-gi murder case. A young schoolgirl, who had no connection to the perpetrator, was murdered on the street. Afterwards, the perpetrator's father, a police officer, attempted to minimize the case. In the end, both families were devastated beyond repair. The victim's family and the offender's family alike were plunged into deep suffering and ruin. This is the destructive work of evil.
So how should we respond when evil comes against us? Scripture tells us to resist it.
"Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you." (James 4:7)
Jesus also said to His disciples, "In my name they will drive out demons..." (Mark 16:17)
When unexplainable hatred enters your heart, when anger seeks to control you, or when destructive thoughts begin to rise within you, do not accept those thoughts as your own and allow them to grow.
Instead, pray:
"In the name of Jesus, I reject this hatred."
"In the name of Jesus, I refuse to let this anger rule my heart."
"Holy Spirit, take control of my heart."
Saul threw his spear at David. Later, David himself had the opportunity to kill Saul.
The people around him said,
"The Lord has delivered your enemy into your hands."
But David refused to kill Saul.
Why?
Because David would not allow Saul's evil to make his own heart evil.
That is the key.
"Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good." (Romans 12:21)
To be overcome by evil is not merely to lose to another person. The real defeat is allowing another person's evil to make us evil as well.
Therefore, the greatest victory is not destroying our enemy, but guarding our own heart.
Finally, remember the promise of God:
"Little children, you are from God and have overcome them, because He who is in you is greater than he who is in the world."
(1 John 4:4)
